

A close-up photograph of a vibrant red rose, with its petals tightly curled and showing some water droplets. The rose is the central focus, set against a blurred background of more red petals and a hint of green. Overlaid on the rose is white, bold, sans-serif text.

2nd Corinthians 12:20 For I fear, lest, when I come, I shall not find you such as I would, and that I shall be found unto you such as ye would not: lest there be debates, envyings, wraths, strifes,
backbitings, whisperings,
swellings, tumults: