

again 0386 # Expanded Dictionary Study

again 0386 # anastasis {an-as'-tas-is}: from 450: a standing up again, i.e. (literally) a resurrection from death (individual, genitive case or by implication [its author]), or (figuratively) a (moral) recovery (of spiritual truth): -- raised to life again, resurrection, rise from the dead, that should rise, rising {again}. [q]

again 0386 # anastasis {an-as'-tas-is}: from 450: a standing up again, i.e. (literally) a resurrection from death (individual, genitive case or by implication [its author]), or (figuratively) a (moral) recovery (of spiritual truth): -- raised to life {again}, resurrection, rise from the dead, that should rise, rising again. [q]

dead 0386 # anastasis {an-as'-tas-is}: from 450: a standing up again, i.e. (literally) a resurrection from death (individual, genitive case or by implication [its author]), or (figuratively) a (moral) recovery (of spiritual truth): -- raised to life again, resurrection, rise from the {dead}, that should rise, rising again. [q]

from 0386 # anastasis {an-as'-tas-is}: from 450: a standing up again, i.e. (literally) a resurrection from death (individual, genitive case or by implication [its author]), or (figuratively) a (moral) recovery (of spiritual truth): -- raised to life again, resurrection, rise {from} the dead, that should rise, rising again. [q]

life 0386 # anastasis {an-as'-tas-is}: from 450: a standing up again, i.e. (literally) a resurrection from death (individual, genitive case or by implication [its author]), or (figuratively) a (moral) recovery (of spiritual truth): -- raised to {life} again, resurrection, rise from the dead, that should rise, rising again. [q]

raised 0386 # anastasis {an-as'-tas-is}: from 450: a standing up again, i.e. (literally) a resurrection from death (individual, genitive case or by implication [its author]), or (figuratively) a (moral) recovery (of spiritual truth): -- {raised} to life again, resurrection, rise from the dead, that should rise, rising again. [q] resurrection 0386 # anastasis {an-as'-tas-is}: from 450: a standing up again, i.e. (literally) a resurrection from death (individual, genitive case or by implication [its author]), or (figuratively) a (moral) recovery (of spiritual truth): -- raised to life again, {resurrection}, rise from the dead, that should rise, rising again. [q]

rise 0386 # anastasis {an-as'-tas-is}: from 450: a standing up again, i.e. (literally) a resurrection from death (individual, genitive case or by implication [its author]), or (figuratively) a (moral) recovery (of spiritual truth): -- raised to life again, resurrection, rise from the dead, that should {rise}, rising again. [q]

rise 0386 # anastasis {an-as'-tas-is}: from 450: a standing up again, i.e. (literally) a resurrection from death (individual, genitive case or by implication [its author]), or (figuratively) a (moral) recovery (of spiritual truth): -- raised to life again, resurrection, {rise} from the dead, that should rise, rising again. [q]

rising 0386 # anastasis {an-as'-tas-is}: from 450: a standing up again, i.e. (literally) a resurrection from death (individual, genitive case or by implication [its author]), or (figuratively) a (moral) recovery (of spiritual truth): -- raised to life again, resurrection, rise from the dead, that should rise, {rising} again. [q] should 0386 # anastasis {an-as'-tas-is}: from 450: a standing up again, i.e. (literally) a resurrection from death (individual, genitive case or by implication [its author]), or (figuratively) a (moral) recovery (of spiritual truth): -- raised to life again, resurrection, rise from the dead, that {should} rise, rising again. [q]

that 0386 # anastasis {an-as'-tas-is}: from 450: a standing up again, i.e. (literally) a resurrection from death (individual, genitive case or by implication [its author]), or (figuratively) a (moral) recovery (of spiritual truth): -- raised to life again, resurrection, rise from the dead, {that} should rise, rising again. [q]

the 0386 # anastasis {an-as'-tas-is}: from 450: a standing up again, i.e. (literally) a resurrection from death (individual, genitive case or by implication [its author]), or (figuratively) a (moral) recovery (of spiritual truth): -- raised to life again, resurrection, rise from {the} dead, that should rise, rising again. [q] to 0386 # anastasis {an-as'-tas-is}: from 450: a standing up again, i.e. (literally) a resurrection from death (individual, genitive case or by implication [its author]), or (figuratively) a (moral) recovery (of spiritual truth): -- raised {to} life again, resurrection, rise from the dead, that should rise, rising again. [q]

-----