

A close-up photograph of a bouquet of hydrangea flowers. The flowers are in various shades of purple, from light lavender to deep, dark purple. Some flowers are in full bloom, showing multiple layers of petals, while others are just starting to open. Green leaves are interspersed among the flowers, providing a natural background. The lighting is soft, highlighting the delicate textures of the petals.

Mark 09:37 Whosoever shall receive one of such children in my name, receiveth me: and whosoever shall receive me, receiveth not me, but him that sent me.