

A serene winter scene featuring a small stream flowing through a forest. The rocks and surrounding vegetation are heavily covered in snow, creating a soft, white blanket over the landscape. The water in the stream is dark and appears to be moving, with some white foam visible as it flows over the rocks. The overall atmosphere is peaceful and quiet, typical of a snowy day in a wooded area.

Psalms 18:33 He maketh my feet
like hinds' feet, and setteth me
upon my high places.