

A close-up photograph of a purple flower spike, likely a heather or similar plant, with many small, bell-shaped blossoms. The background is a soft-focus green, suggesting foliage. The text is overlaid in white, bold, serif font.

Psalms 52:05 God shall likewise destroy thee for ever, he shall take thee away, and pluck thee out of thy dwelling place, and root thee out of the land of the living. Selah.