

The background image is a landscape photograph. The top half shows a bright, hazy sky with orange and yellow tones, suggesting a sunset or sunrise. Below the sky, there are several layers of dark, silhouetted mountains. In the distance, a city or town is visible, with some lights and structures discernible against the darker landscape. The foreground is mostly dark, with some vertical shapes that could be trees or structures, but they are mostly obscured by the darkness.

because the winds were contrary.
