

A photograph of a garden filled with numerous pink roses in various stages of bloom. The roses are set against a backdrop of dense green leaves and branches. In the upper right corner, a portion of a light blue building is visible. The overall scene is bright and vibrant, with natural lighting highlighting the textures of the petals and leaves.

Luke 23:28 But Jesus turning unto them said, Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but weep for yourselves, and for your children.