

A photograph of a rocky coastline. In the foreground, a wide beach covered in small, light-colored pebbles leads to a large, weathered rock formation. The rock is grey and has some reddish-brown lichen or rust on its top surface. To the left, another smaller rock formation is visible. In the background, the ocean meets a clear blue sky. The text is overlaid on the image in a white, serif font.

Isaiah 30:17 One thousand shall flee at the rebuke of one; at the rebuke of five shall ye flee: till ye be left as a beacon upon the top of a mountain, and as an ensign on an hill.