

A photograph of a path in a forest, covered with fallen autumn leaves. The path is the central focus, leading from the foreground into the distance. The leaves are in various shades of yellow, orange, and brown. The trees on either side are tall and thin, with some foliage still visible. The lighting is soft, suggesting a late afternoon or early morning setting. The overall mood is peaceful and contemplative.

John 19:21 Then said the chief priests of the Jews to Pilate, Write not, The King of the Jews; but that he said, I am King of the Jews.