

A photograph of a pond with several large, round, green lily pads floating on the water. The water is dark and reflects the surrounding greenery. A wooden edge of the pond is visible in the bottom left corner. The text is overlaid in white, bold, serif font.

John 16:32 Behold, the hour cometh, yea, is now come, that ye shall be scattered, every man to his own, and shall leave me alone:
and yet I am not alone, because
the Father is with me.