

A close-up photograph of a dense field of petunias. The flowers are in various shades of pink, magenta, and purple, with some lighter lavender ones in the foreground. The green leaves and stems are visible between the blossoms. The background is softly blurred, emphasizing the individual flowers.

Mark 12:44 For all they did cast in of their abundance; but she of her want did cast in all that she had,
even all her living.