

Psalm 81:15 The haters of the LORD should have submitted themselves unto him: but their time should have endured for ever.

A large, vibrant yellow rose in full bloom, set against a background of green leaves and other smaller yellow roses. The rose is the central focus, with its many layers of petals creating a rich, textured appearance. The background is slightly blurred, showing more green foliage and a few other yellow roses, creating a sense of a garden or field.
