

Psalm 137:6 If I do not remember thee, let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth; if I prefer not Jerusalem above my chief joy.

A close-up photograph of a single, large flower with bright yellow and orange petals. The flower is in full bloom, with its center showing numerous stamens. The background is a soft-focus green, suggesting a garden or field setting.