

A photograph of a waterfall cascading over dark, layered rocks. The water is captured with a long exposure, creating a soft, white, misty effect as it falls. The rocks are dark and wet, with some small green plants growing in the crevices. The overall scene is natural and serene.

Psalm 73:20 As a dream when one awaketh; so, O Lord, when thou awakest, thou shalt despise their image.
