

A close-up photograph of a large number of small, vibrant blue flowers, likely lobelia, growing densely together. The flowers have five petals and prominent stamens. The background is filled with green leaves and stems, creating a lush, textured appearance. The lighting is bright, highlighting the individual petals and the overall field of blossoms.

Psalm 63:07 Because thou hast been my help, therefore in the shadow of thy wings will I rejoice.