

A close-up photograph of a field of cockscomb flowers. The flowers are a vibrant, deep red color and have a distinctive, spiky, comb-like appearance. They are densely packed and stand tall on green stems. The background is filled with more of these flowers and their green leaves, creating a rich, textured scene. The lighting is bright, highlighting the texture of the flower heads.

Mat 13:13 Therefore speak I to them in parables: because they seeing see not; and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand.