

A serene seascape at dawn or dusk. The sky is a pale, hazy blue with a soft glow from the sun, which is visible as a bright spot near the top center. The water is calm and reflects the light. In the foreground on the left, the white cabin of a boat is visible, with several windows and some equipment on top. In the middle ground, several fishing boats are scattered across the water, their forms softened by the distance and light. The overall mood is peaceful and contemplative.

with you; but me ye have not always.
