

A close-up photograph of a vibrant pink rose in full bloom, set against a background of lush green foliage and dark mulch. The rose is the central focus, with its petals showing a gradient of pink and white. The text is overlaid in a white, serif font, centered horizontally and partially overlapping the rose and the background. The lighting is soft, suggesting a garden setting during the day.

Genesis 02:14 And the name of the third river is Hiddekel: that is it which goeth toward the east of Assyria. And the fourth river is Euphrates.