

A close-up photograph of several white lily flowers. The petals are large and trumpet-shaped, with some showing small yellow spots. Green leaves are visible in the foreground and background. Several water droplets are clinging to the petals and stems, suggesting the flowers are wet. The background is a soft, out-of-focus grey.

Genesis 21:15 And the water was spent in the bottle, and she cast the child under one of the shrubs.