

Genesis 29:02 And he looked, and behold a well in the field, and, lo, there were three flocks of sheep lying by it; for out of that well they watered the flocks: and a great stone was upon the well's mouth.

A photograph of a coastline. Waves are crashing onto dark, jagged rocks in the foreground. The water is a deep blue-grey, with white foam from the waves. In the background, more rocks and vegetation are visible along the shore.