

A close-up photograph of several purple iris flowers in bloom, set against a background of brown mulch and green foliage. The text is overlaid on the image in a white, serif font.

Genesis 50:11 And when the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, saw the mourning in the floor of Atad, they said, This is a grievous mourning to the Egyptians: wherefore the name of it was called Abelmizraim, which is beyond Jordan.