

A close-up photograph of a lupine plant in full bloom. The central focus is a tall, slender stem covered in a dense cluster of small, light pink flowers with darker purple centers. The leaves are bright green and have a distinctive palmate shape with several pointed leaflets. In the background, other lupine plants are visible, some with blue flowers and some with green, unopened buds. The overall scene is a lush, green field under bright, natural light.

Exodus 34:26 The first of the firstfruits of thy land thou shalt bring unto the house of the LORD thy God. Thou shalt not seethe a kid in his mother's milk.