The background of the image shows a natural, somewhat desolate landscape. On the right side, there is a pile of dark, jagged rocks. To the left and in the center, there is a dense thicket of dry, brown grasses and some small, green plants with tiny white flowers. A large, dark shadow is cast across the middle of the scene, suggesting a large object is present but not clearly visible. The overall lighting is natural, with some highlights on the rocks and plants.
