

A close-up photograph of a large tortoise, likely a Galapagos tortoise, walking on a patch of green grass. The tortoise's head is in the foreground, facing left, with its eyes and nostrils visible. Its shell is a mix of brown and tan colors, showing the characteristic scutes. The background is slightly blurred, showing more of the tortoise's body and the surrounding environment.

2nd Chronicles 32:16 And his servants spake yet more against the LORD God, and against his servant Hezekiah.