

A close-up photograph of a bouquet of flowers. The central focus is a plant with large, heart-shaped leaves that are variegated with shades of pink and white, with dark green veins. Interspersed among these leaves are several bright orange roses in various stages of bloom. There are also some white flowers and a small blue flower visible. The background is a soft-focus green, suggesting more foliage.

Job 32:13 Lest ye should say, We have found out wisdom: God
thrusteth him down, not man.