

A photograph of a rugged, rocky mountain slope. The terrain is covered in dark, jagged rocks and patches of dry earth. Sparse green vegetation, including small shrubs and trees, is scattered across the landscape. A dirt path is visible in the upper left corner. The text is overlaid in white, serif font, centered on the image.

Ecclesiastics 02:12 And I turned myself to behold wisdom, and madness, and folly: for what can the man do that cometh after the king? even that which hath been already done.