

The background of the image features several purple daisy-like flowers with dark purple centers, set against a dark, almost black background. The flowers are in various stages of bloom, with some fully open and others partially visible. The lighting is soft, highlighting the delicate petals and the texture of the centers.

Isaiah 26:14 They are dead, they shall not live; they are deceased, they shall not rise: therefore hast thou visited and destroyed them, and made all their memory to perish.