

A close-up photograph of a tulip flower. The main focus is a large, partially open tulip with white petals and a pink border. In the foreground, there are several green, pointed tulip leaves and a small, unopened pink tulip bud. The background is softly blurred, showing more of the same flower. The text is overlaid in white, bold, sans-serif font.

Isaiah 38:18 For the grave cannot praise thee, death can not celebrate thee: they that go down into the pit cannot hope for thy truth.