

A photograph of a copper bucket hanging from a metal pipe, with water pouring into it. The bucket is positioned over a dark, reflective surface, possibly a pool of water. The background is filled with vibrant green foliage, including various leafy plants and vines. The text is overlaid on the image in a white, serif font.

Isaiah 45:02 I will go before thee, and make the crooked places straight: I will break in pieces the gates of brass, and cut in sunder the bars of iron: