

A scenic view of a rocky coastline. The foreground shows dark, jagged rocks with white foam from waves crashing against them. The water is a deep blue-green. In the background, a steep, forested hillside rises, with a small waterfall visible on the left. The overall atmosphere is one of natural beauty and power.

Isaiah 06:11 Then said I, Lord, how long? And he answered, Until the cities be wasted without inhabitant, and the houses without man, and the land be utterly desolate,