

A close-up photograph of several purple foxglove flowers (Digitalis purpurea) hanging from a stem. The flowers are bell-shaped and have a mottled pattern of darker purple spots on their inner surface. The background is a soft-focus green, likely the leaves of the plant.

Lamentations 01:02 She weepeth sore in the night, and her tears are on her cheeks: among all her lovers she hath none to comfort her : all her friends have dealt treacherously with her, they are become her enemies.