

A close-up photograph of a rose. The central part of the rose is in focus, showing a dense cluster of yellow and orange stamens. To the right, a purple rose bud is partially visible, still encased in its green sepals. The background is blurred, showing other roses in various colors like red and pink. The text is overlaid in white, bold, sans-serif font.

Ezekiel 21:10 It is sharpened to make a sore slaughter; it is furbished that it may glitter:
should we then make mirth? it contemneth the rod of my son, as every tree.