

Man, I wish I could take the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the hearts of the children to their fathers, lest I come and smite the earth with a curse.

