

A close-up photograph of several white flowers, possibly lilies or similar, with large, delicate petals. The flowers are set against a dark, almost black background, which makes the white petals stand out prominently. The lighting is soft, highlighting the texture of the petals. The text is overlaid on the upper portion of the image.

Deutronomy 28:43 The stranger that is within thee shall get up above thee very high; and thou shalt come down very low.
