

Mark 03:25 And if a house be divided against itself, that house
cannot stand.

A close-up photograph of a rose bush. The image is filled with numerous green leaves and several bright red roses. Some roses are fully open, showing their layered petals, while others are still in bud form. The background is softly blurred, showing more greenery and a hint of a light-colored wall or fence. The overall scene is bright and natural, with the red of the roses standing out against the lush green.
