

A dramatic seascape with waves crashing against a rocky shore. The water is a deep, turbulent blue, and the waves are white with foam as they break. The rocks are dark and jagged, with some pools of water in the crevices. The sky is not visible, but the overall scene is one of raw natural power.

Acts 03:23 And it shall come to pass, that every soul, which will not hear that prophet, shall be destroyed from among the people.