

A close-up photograph of a tree branch with peeling bark against a clear blue sky. The bark is light-colored and flaking, revealing a darker inner layer. The branch is thick and gnarled, with several smaller, thinner branches extending from it. The background is a solid, clear blue sky.

Acts 22:09 And they that were with me saw indeed the light, and were afraid; but they heard not the voice of him that spake to me.