

A scenic view of a river flowing through a rocky canyon. The river is a vibrant green color, contrasting with the grey and brown rocks of the canyon walls. The banks are covered in lush green vegetation, including trees and shrubs. In the foreground, there are several large, light-colored rocks and a pile of dry, tangled branches. The overall scene is a natural, rugged landscape.

Joshua 24:16 And the people answered and said, God forbid that we should forsake the LORD,
to serve other gods;