

Colossians 01:17 And he is before
all things, and by him all things consist.

A scenic view of a river or lake flowing through a dense forest. The water is a deep blue-green color, reflecting the surrounding greenery. The banks are lined with various trees and bushes, some of which are in the foreground, partially obscuring the view of the water. Sunlight filters through the canopy, creating dappled light on the water and the ground. The overall atmosphere is peaceful and natural.
