

An aerial photograph of a beach during low tide. The sand is wet and has been sculpted into a complex, organic pattern of ridges and valleys, resembling a topographical map or a series of interconnected paths. The colors range from light tan to dark grey, with numerous small, dark tide pools scattered throughout the landscape. The overall texture is highly detailed and rhythmic.

Colossians 02:06 As ye have therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk ye in him: