

A photograph of a stone wall under construction on a hillside. The wall is built with large, irregular stones and is partially covered with a grey tarp at the base. A dirt path leads up the hillside, and there is lush green vegetation on the left. The sky is bright and clear.

For what we are we
the world is not yet appeared: but we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is.