

A photograph of a stone retaining wall in a garden. The wall is built from large, light-colored, irregularly shaped stones. To the left of the wall, there is a dense patch of green plants with small purple and yellow flowers. The ground to the right of the wall is dark brown soil. The text is overlaid on the image in a white, serif font.

Genesis 24:50 Then Laban and Bethuel answered and said, The thing proceedeth from the LORD: we cannot speak unto thee bad or good.