

The background of the image is a dense, intricate network of thin, light-colored branches or reeds, possibly from a willow or similar tree. The branches are thin and woody, creating a complex, web-like pattern. The color of the branches is a pale, almost white or light beige, contrasting with the deep blue of the sky visible in the upper right corner. The overall texture is very busy and detailed.

Leviticus 12:03 And in the eighth day the flesh of his foreskin shall be circumcised.